ELKS AND FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTE TO LODGE'S DEAD

Impressive Ceremonies Are Held Sunday Afternoon
to Honor Departed

The first Sunday in December is the great national memorial day of the order of Elks and impressive tribute was paid to the memory of the seventy-one deceased members of the Glendale Lodge, No. 1289, B. P. O. E. yesterday afternoon at the Glendale theatre, where Elks and their friends gathered for the annual memorial service.

Rich simplicity marked the services. The attractive auditorium of the theatre, indirectly lighted and artistically decorated presented an ideal setting for the memorial. A tall basket of huge white chrysanthemums tied with purple tulle, expressing the colors of the Elks lodge, and potted ferns were the effective decorations used across the front of the stage.

Lodge Colors
The lodge colors were also recognized in the boutonnières of white carnations and violets worn by all Elks attending. Those not belonging to the order, but joining with the Elks in the services, each received a white carnation.

Shortly before the hour announced for the service, members of the Elks lodge filed in and took their places in the central section of the auditorium. Reserved especially for them. Guests were seated in the sections on either side and practically every seat in the central and two side sections was taken.

Lodge Principles
There were six persons taking part in the tableau. First a woman and child portraying the spirit of brotherly love; a second group of two standing for the spirit of charity; then two lone figures, one standing for justice and the other for fidelity.

Well, Postmaster Jackson give me and Mary quite a bouquet. We decided to mail our presents to the folks back east early so we took 'em down this morning. And the Captain says, "Well, you folks are certainly sensible mailin' your Christmas packages so early. They'll get there in plenty of time and in good shape and it's a big help to us postoffice folks." Mary told him she was goin' to mail some cards yet but she is goin' to put them in regular sized envelopes like he ask us to. Conference at San Diego
Sets Record; Program Is Varied and Helpful

The annual Hi-Y conference at San Diego, which closed at that city last night after a three day session, drew the largest attendance ever registered in this part of the state for such an assembly. Nearly 100 automobiles rolled up to the Y. M. C. A. building there on Friday, from all points of the southland, and when registration had been completed it was seen that attendance, including leaders was close to the 700 figure.

So great was the press, indeed, that more than 200 San Diego homes were thrown open to the young visitors, the First Methodist church assisting the Y. M. C. A. in registration and assignment.

In the course of the program which followed, the delegates were tendered the keys of the city by the mayor. The new conference president, Charles Noble, (Continued on Page 4)

Would Change Policy
"While it may be possible," Mr. Harding said, "to make a small reduction in an item here and there, any material reduction will necessitate a change in the administrative policy upon which estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1924 are based."

The president gave the estimate of expenditures for the next fiscal year as $3,180,843,234, pointing out that the estimate of cash withdrawals is to be distinguished from the estimate of appropriations contained in the budget since withdrawals during the fiscal year will be made from previous appropriations as well as from appropriations recommended in the budget.

In the beginning of his message the president called attention to the reduction in the prospective deficit for the current fiscal year from $697,433,231 to $273,938,712, due to "continued pressure for economies and a revision of the expenditure programs," and expressed hope that the close of the year on June 30, 1923, would show a balanced account.

U. S. BUDGET FOR YEAR OF 1923
By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The budget of the United States for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1923, providing for appropriations aggregating $3,078,940,331 for the operation of the federal government, was transmitted to congress today by President Harding.

The total estimate is $195,298,359 less than the appropriations already made for the current fiscal year. This reduction was made possible, the president said in a message accompanying the budget, by pursuing a policy emphasizing the "need of more rigid economy in the expenditure of public funds."

He took occasion at the same time, however, to warn congress that further slashes would not be approved by the administration.

"Militarism is an impossibility in this republic of ours," the general declared. "No, my friends, militarism does not threaten us, but it is the foe of reasonable preparedness who is dangerous. Who among us are less warlike or more patriotic than the 4,000,000 men who served their country in the cause of humanity?" Our regular army is dangerously near the numbers the allies determined as equivalent to complete disarmament, General Pershing said. He compared our defense troops to the larger armies of other nations and discredited the theory that "a million men could spring to arms over night."

TWO MEN BURNED, PROPERTY LOSS, IN EXPLOSION

Accessory Department of William H. Hooper Co.
Scene of Accident

Two men were severely burned, one perhaps fatally, and property to the extent of several thousand dollars was damaged when a pocket of natural gas of unknown origin exploded shortly after 4 p. m. yesterday in the accessory department of the William H. Hooper Tire Company, 222 east Broadway.

The injured were: S. P. "Bud" Pringle, employee of the Hooper company, burned severely above the waist. His condition is reported to be critical.

Fred H. Sawyer, a customer at the Hooper filling station when the accident happened, received slight burns over his body.

Both men were removed to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital following the explosion. This morning the doctors in attendance reported that Pringle is resting as comfortable as could be expected. His body above the waist is one mass of burns, they said. Sawyer's burns were not very deep. It is believed he will be about in a few days.

Property Damage.
The property damaged by the explosion includes the Hooper accessory department, which is a total wreck; the J. E. Ulrich's Smoke Shop, Zeun's Market, and the Rollin' Pin Bake Shop. All of the places damaged are adjacent to the Hooper plant.

The accessory department where the explosion occurred is a complete wreck. A large window glass that fronted the latter was blown to pieces. Display and stock goods in the shop were blown in heaps about the salesroom.

Attaches of the Hooper company, at the scene of the explosion this morning, said that the damage to their plant alone will run into thousands of dollars. The shop was equipped with an expensive stock of auto accessories. Much of the damage was done by water used by firemen in extinguishing the fire that followed the explosion.

The combined opinion of witnesses of the accident is that the (Continued on Page 11)

OUR DEBT DUE TO U. S. IS VOICED

Sheldon Coit Contends That Americans Should Heed Their Obligations

By SHELDON COIT
Practically everyone will admit today that as citizens of the United States we have certain obligations to fulfill, but everyone is not so certain that these obligations are. And when it comes to responsibilities to other nations beyond the limits of our own country there is a vagueness and lack of comprehension that is astounding. No doubt this deficiency is due to the fact that the United States has consistently followed a policy of isolation due to the broad expanse of ocean lying between us and the other leading powers of the world. The time has come, however, when this isolation must be terminated. Economically we are becoming more and more bound up in the affairs of the world, and in order to have satisfactory relations with other nations, we must become actively engaged in political affairs.

Co-operation Needed
Co-operation is one of the strongest points of policy which is to be successful. Without the co-operation of the parties concerned, good results have never and never will be obtained. The United States of America would never have developed into the nation it is today if the oppressed colonies had not united in their endeavors to oppose Great Britain. "In Union There is Strength." If during the Civil War the people of the North had not united, forgetting their party lines, there would have been two weak nations where there is now one strong one.

The spirit of democracy and tolerance must be absorbed by the people before satisfactory arrangements can be made for safeguarding the peace of the world. We must accept the fact that everyone is not of the same opinion, but that each one has just as much right to declare his opinion as anyone else. Religious and racial distinctions are where this must apply more than anywhere else. The Puritans who came to New England were not tolerated in their former homes, but when they arrived in this country they would not permit any other religion to be practiced in their midst and drove out or severely punished all offenders. This is not a spirit of sportsmanship, justice, or fair play, and the time has come when these should have a broader scope than they have been accorded in the past.

Join Other Nations
In order to rank as a world power and not a provincial nation, we must co-operate with the other nations. This certainly is going to be a direct benefit to our country in many ways. Our commerce will be improved, the other nations will be able to pay off debts and once more stand on their own feet, and the interests of our citizens in other countries will be better cared for, if we co-operate with them at all possible times on all matters. It means of course, that we must assume obligations; but whenever anyone is to receive benefits from anything there are responsibilities and obligations to be shouldered in consequence. The greatest benefit of all I think would be the friendly feeling which would exist between nations if a conversation were carried on between them concerning affairs of interest to all. The publication of a diplomatic note from another nation would surely create a friendly feeling among the population. The time has come when a citizen must consider affairs from a broader, from an international standpoint.

First Thanks Day

By JOHN GARNER
Age 9 Years, Grade B-4, Doran Street School
One day in England a group of people called the Pilgrims, decided to leave dear old England on account of the king who wanted them to pray and worship the way he did.

They sailed for days and for months in the ship Mayflower. Finally they reached Plymouth Harbor and found they could anchor in safety.
About Christmas time they put up their first log house. One day they were surprised to see an Indian walk boldly in and say in good English: "Welcome, Englishmen." Then he said that his name was Samoset and that he had learned their language. Samoset went away in the morning and returned in a few days bringing some other Indians with him. They held a feast and thanked God and invited the Indians. They brought a bag of popcorn to the Pilgrims who had never seen it before. This was the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving Day.

MAYOR TELLS OF EDUCATION WEEK

Spencer Robinson Gives Out Proclamation and Urges People to Respond

Spencer Robinson, mayor of the city of Glendale, today issued the following proclamation to American Education Week, which starts today.

PROCLAMATION
American Education Week was first initiated by the American Legion in 1921. This year again the American Legion in conjunction with the United States Bureau of Education and the National Education Association, are calling upon the people of the nation to observe American Education Week.

The purposes of this great educational movement are to create a deeper and more universal interest in education, to remove illiteracy, to promote physical education and health service, to secure an equalization of educational opportunities throughout the United States, to Americanize the foreign born, to inspire patriotism and above all, to pave the way for a higher type of Americanism.

Expresses Program
It has been said that "The difficulties of democracy are the opportunities of education." This statement fully expresses the program outlined for American Education Week. The American Legion and the organizations co-operating with it in this movement, have dedicated themselves to the task of educating the youth of the country, to serious effort towards a solution of democracy's difficulties—a serious effort springing from that deepest of patriotism that was expressed by the sacrifices rendered for democracy's sake in the time of our greatest crisis that must find its greatest strength in day to day continuous service of peace time. They have dedicated themselves to the task of making America truly American, to making good citizens of all our citizens, to educating the American public to the dangers and evils of that radicalism that seeks to undermine and destroy our government, to building Americans for the future, a future of greatness she is destined to attain through the loyalty, idealism and the practical, unselfish service of all.

You will find every day of Education Week devoted in some big, wide-awake, lasting way to the education of the people. On you, fellow citizens, depend the question of how long it must be before these purposes are realized. It is for you to determine how long it shall be before we shall dwell together as a people, united in thought, sympathies and unity of purpose—one flag—one speech—one ideal of government.

Now, therefore, I, Spencer Robinson, mayor of the city of Glendale, designate the week of December 3rd to 9th, for the observance of American Education Week, in the city, and earnestly request that every citizen of Glendale co-operate with the local post of the American Legion and the school authorities in furthering the cause of education.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 2d day of December, 1922.
SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.

The Blackboard

Myrl Linklog, age 9 years, grade A-4, Colorado.
When I was a little tree, I lived in a forest on the other side of the ocean. Day by day I would wonder what the big trees saw as they waved and bowed towards the ocean. Till one day after I had grown pretty big a woodcutter came along and cut me down. Then he put me on a wagon and hauled me to the seashore, where he put me on a lumber ship. Soon I felt another tree being pushed alongside of me.

All night I lay on the ship wondering where I would go next. Early the next morning we started on our voyage across the ocean to California. We traveled many days and weeks before we reached California.
We landed at San Francisco. They took me off the ship and put me on a lumber ship that took me to a lumber factory. Then I was put in a saw mill and when I came out I was a flat board. I was then taken to a painter, who painted me a dark green. Later I was put in a school room where children and teachers wrote names and problems on me.

A Nightingale

By MARJORIE OSBORNE
Age 9 Years, Grade B-4, Columbus School
In China a great many years ago, an emperor had a splendid palace and a garden full of wonderful flowers.

Beyond the garden was a forest with tall trees which sloped down to the deep blue sea. Great ships could sail right under the branches of the trees. In one of these trees lived a nightingale. In the evening when the nightingale was singing the fishermen would stop and listen.

People came from all parts of the world, admiring the palace, the garden and flowers.
But when they came to the nightingale, they said, "This is the best of all."
The poets wrote poems and stories about the palace and the nightingale. Some of the books came to the emperor. He was pleased to see the wonderful things about the empire. But when he came to the words that said, "But the nightingale is the best of all," he was so astonished that he sent for his high officers.

SCHOOLS

This is American Education Week. It is being observed by the schools of Glendale. Pupils are preparing for publication reasons why education—more of it—is necessary. In these columns will be found brief articles by Glendale pupils.

Training for Duties And Slogan of Success

By JULIA HULL, '23
Citizenship—how often we have heard that word and yet, after all how much does it mean to the average man or woman of today. The more important point is, how many of us really know what the word citizenship means. If we were called upon to give a definition of citizenship it is very likely that a majority of us would find it a hard thing to do. I think a very simple definition would be—loyalty to one's own country. It seems to me this takes in every phase of what it means to be a good citizen. Three essential points that lead to good citizenship are: Obedience, co-operation and service.

By obedience our duty is to obey the law and the lawful commands of those in authority. It seems in some cases it is very hard for some people to do this. For instance, some of these unruly speeders which now are spending from two to five days in jail.

In co-operation one should act wisely and understandingly in the election of other citizens to represent him in the conduct of the government. At election time we always find people who are never willing to sacrifice their ideas just a little in order that they might be convinced of voting for a better man. If some people could only be convinced this might help a great deal in co-operation.

Service. When it comes to this, every one of us should be ready to defend and serve our country in one way or another.
At present, the training that students receive in school should help them in some way to become better citizens. The night schools also a great help now in the training of adults who did not have the chance to go to school when they were young. Many foreigners are also being Americanized in order that they might become citizens.

School life is a great help to the student of today toward becoming a better citizen by means of athletics, dramatics, election of student body officers, school spirit, public speaking and the social life which seems to play a very important part.

It seems to me that school spirit and social life are two very important factors that would help a student to become a good citizen. School spirit is the ambition of a student to be ready to serve his school and stand up for the principles that will be for the betterment of the school. I think this may also apply to service that every American citizen should be ready to give his country.

The slogan is American all by 1927. Let's help make this slogan a great help.

Returning Kindness

By EDNA MAE PAULL
Age 9, Grade A-4, Pacific Avenue School
About two weeks ago Daddy told Mother he was very puzzled how to show his appreciation to a gentleman who had done him several favors.

As he does not smoke, he could not give him cigars. I heard the conversation and knowing he had a little girl of whom he is very proud, suggested giving her a doll for Christmas.

Daddy was pleased with my suggestion, bought the doll, and Mother said she would dress it. Then Mother and I had to decide on the color. We chose rose with black trimmings and hat to match. Now it is all finished and looks so sweet and pretty that I feel I should like to own it.
So I decided to fix up an old doll to look as much like her as possible, but the wig was so untidy I thought I would get her a new one. So I went up town but could not find any I liked, so made up my mind to fix up the old one as good as I could. The next morning when I came home from school, much to my surprise dear Mother had fixed and made ready a lovely wig for me. I was so happy I felt I should like to own it.

When I got her dress and hat finished I am sure she will look as good as a new one.

Thanksgiving

By JEANNETTE SCHENDENER
9 Years, Grade B-4, Columbus Avenue School.

Long, long ago, before any of us were born, Indians lived here. One day some people that lived in England thought they would come over here and see what was here. They came across the ocean in a big sailboat called the Mayflower.

They were called Pilgrims, because they were out hunting a new land.
When they landed the Indians came to meet them.

The Indians taught them how to plant and lots of other things. They lived in houses made of logs. A lot of the Pilgrims died that winter. It was a very hard winter for the Pilgrims. One day in the fall the Pilgrims thought they ought to thank God for all the things He had done. They invited all the good Indians. The Indians brought corn and the Pilgrims went out and killed wild turkeys. They also got apples and nuts. They all had a very nice time. That is why we celebrate Thanksgiving.

The piano was invented in Italy, its history beginning with the year 1709.

Schools Contribute to Citizenship Training

By GRAHAM LOTTA, '23
Training for citizenship is unquestionably essential to good citizenship. In view of the fact that practically all of the citizens of the school are interested in the school it is interesting to review the ways in which the modern high school trains its students for citizenship. Each subject teaches some requisite for good citizenship, each phase of school life has in it a lesson for the future citizen. School life is a life in itself, and the student who makes a good citizen of the school after he reaches the age of twenty-one.

A good citizen must acquaint himself with the affairs of the day, in school, conversation, announcements, bulletins, assemblies, and most important, the school paper informs the citizens of the school what is happening that is of interest to the school. In civic life an often neglected duty of the citizen is that of keeping himself well informed on topics of general public interest. Nearly all schools now require the study of current events in connection with some other subject, and thus the student gets the habit of systematically reading current events.

A fine training in citizenship is given to students in those schools where student government is practiced. This form of self-government by the students has proven very satisfactory in most schools which have adopted it. It gives the school just as a government as the nation. To those who are selected to take part in the governing, the experience of holding office teaches much in the way of government, while those who do not hold office also receive valuable training by their part in the government.

Certain qualities are necessary in a good citizen, and each school subject seeks to teach some one of these in particular. English, and the allied subjects, Journalism, Dramatics, and Public Speaking, teach the pupil how to express himself in public clearly, forcefully, and correctly. This asset is indispensable to anyone who seeks to serve in public life, and is a great aid to the ordinary citizen. Debate furnishes a competitive form of public speaking and thus adds to the students' interest and enjoyment. Mathematics teach the lesson of order, and if the citizen realizes the amount of order that he has in the franchise and privileges, he will realize that the importance of the habit of carefulness is no small matter. Science teaches concentration; Art teaches appreciation; Languages, thoroughness; Commercial subjects, neatness; manual arts, accuracy; all qualities essential to good citizenship. Every school subject teaches the great value of efficiency. Examinations prove the value of training. We would not expect a pupil who had not studied the subject on which he was being examined to pass the test, any more than we should suppose that an untrained man would make a good president. Perhaps the studies which teach the most in the way of citizenship training are History and Civics. The one gives a knowledge of governments and the other a knowledge of the world's history, the conditions under which they functioned, the forms they assumed, and the results they accomplished. The other gives an insight into the governments of today, local, state, and national. This is the most direct training for citizenship to be found in any subject. Fortunately, both History and Civics are compulsory, so every high school student gets the benefit of them.

Certain phases of school life, besides the various subjects taught, have a lesson in citizenship connected with them. The organization by roll rooms and by classes shows by its good example that organization and co-operation can accomplish things impossible by individual action. Even the cafeteria teaches a lesson in tolerance. Students are habitually forced to stand in line and wait their turn before they are waited upon, and are often forced to accept a substitute in the absence of some dish they particularly want. They learn from this that to get the benefit of a thing, they must often put up with many minor things which are not to their liking. The social side of school life develops that indefinable, indispensable thing, personality. Athletics have lessons in citizenship in various forms. The regular classes in gymnasium, as well as athletic contests show the necessity of fitness and training. The competitive contests, especially interscholastic games, teach teamwork, cooperation, sportsmanship, and loyalty to both the players and the rooters, and develop that quality in both which is called character. Student body officers in school life are laying a foundation for development of civic pride, a necessity in any successful community.

So we see that in every phase of school life, as well as in every subject, the student is learning fundamental ideas of good citizenship, which, if carried out in civic life, will help make a better community, a better state, and a better nation.

READING HISTORY MAKES GOOD RACE

Pauline Estock Says Study of Our Country's Past Is Inspiring

By PAULINE ESTOCK, '24
Truly the study of the history of our country makes us better citizens. Who can read of the brave deeds of our forefathers and not experience a keen desire to carry on the great work they have begun? Who can read of the almost impossibility of starting a new government, in a new land, for new people, without desiring to make this country still more prosperous and successful? If we read our history and watch closely between the lines we will see a duty to perform. Our duty, as Americans, is not to allow the lofty principles, which our forefathers originated to die out, but to do our best to make them flourish; a stern duty to carry on those principles of right, which our ancestors created for the benefit of all: Democracy and freedom; a duty to continue the good which our fathers stand for, the equality of every man, regardless of color, religion or race. And not only to continue it, but, if possible, to improve it.

Early Hardships
The story of the early hardships, by which it seemed that our country would be overcome, should encourage us to forge ahead. Surely if our nation, with the difficulty it had in the beginning, grew into the greatest country on the face of the earth today, what can we not do? Surely the memory of those stirring times, when our country was in its youth will enable us to desire and to gain for it still more prosperity. Indeed, we owe it to the patriots who fought and died for its freedom! We can do more than merely see our duty clearly and be encouraged by the reading of history. We can profit by it. Where the government was faulty, it failed; and where it was for the good of the many, it succeeded. Even in this advanced age we can learn this lesson.

A good citizen certainly desires the welfare of his country. If he desires it, he will make an effort to promote its interests. Let the History of Our Country be an inspiration to us and make us better citizens!

Fire Prevention

By MADELINE MANN
Age 9 Years, Grade A-4, Central Avenue School
Once I read in the paper a forest fire was threatening a village. The men were fighting hard for their lives and their people. A man was on the top of a hill and he looked down where the fire was.

He said it was coming nearer every minute and they must do something quick or the whole village would be burned. So they went and dug a big fire path along the mountain side.

When the fire came it met with the path and did not have any more fuel to burn so it stopped. Another way I think they could have stopped it would be to start another fire on the other side of the mountain. When the two fires met they would stop.

Once in this same village another forest fire started. The people were terrified and ran in all directions.

So they did not have time to put it out but they saw it coming so fast they didn't have time to run. So they jumped into the river and the fire swept over them and their noses were burned frightfully but they were saved.

Story of a Pet

By BELLE GRAY
Age 10 Years, Grade B-4, Cerritos School
Three or four years ago I went on a visit to my aunt's. She gave me a white dog, which I named Dick. It grew up to be a big dog.

It lives in Long Beach. I left it with my aunt, then I went on my vacation.

Dick can shake hands, stands on his hind legs and begs, and goes to the door when he wants to go out of doors.

Once Dick wanted out; then he ran down the street. I did not know where he went. I looked and looked for him. When it was night mother said he would come back. The next day we went to see my aunt in Glendale.

Dick did come back, but we were gone. He waited and waited. The next week we came home from my aunt's. Dick was so glad to see us. He never ran away after that, but went where we went.

RELIGION SHOULD BE USED ALWAYS

Dr. Funk Says Teachings of Christ Are Practical Every Day

"Selling Points in Our Religion," was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"The language of our text clearly indicates that our religion is a very practical thing," declared Dr. H. C. Funk. "It should be used seven days in the week for 365 days in the year."

"Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. 'Buy the truth and sell it not,' said the Word. Adaptation is a very important thing in a salesman. Enthusiasm is another desirable asset."

"I asked a gentleman what he was doing. His reply was: 'I'm serving the Lord and selling shoes to pay expenses.'"

Meaning of Creed
Church of the Reformation has a creed. What does that mean? It means that we are willing to confess what we believe before the world. Let us believe these fundamental teachings with all our souls and confess them with genuine enthusiasm.

"Who are the real benefactors of the world? Are they skeptics and unbelievers? No, these people never construct anything; they tear down and destroy what others have built. 'Faith is the substance of things hoped for,' says the apostle."

"Why do men invest large sums of money in certain enterprises? Because they have confidence in them."

The Family Ford

By MAXINE NEWELL
Age 9 Years, Grade B-4, Broadway School

There was a great hurrying and scurrying in the Jones house. They were going to Greenville. Dad was out working on Henry. He finally got the motor started and off they went.

They had not gone far when old Henry stopped right in the middle of the road. Each one in the family suggested what could be done. Three-year-old Elsie said, "Daddy, maybe Henry needs to be pushed." Everyone laughed at this. Tom thought that they had too big a load, but Dad said that Henry could carry any number of people. It was mostly who finally suggested looking into the gasoline tank. It was empty and they were six miles from Greenville.

Very soon a man came along the road. Dad asked the man if he would take him to town and the man said he would. Dad got the truck wagon and drove off with the man.

About dark Tom saw a wagon coming. It was dad, sure enough. He had some gasoline. Soon Henry was going thirty miles an hour. It wasn't Henry's fault it was dark before they got to Greenville.

Columbus

By LOUISE HENDERSON
Age 9 Years, Grade B-4, Colorado School

About 500 years ago, there was a man named Columbus. He studied maps until he began to think that the world was round. But he was a poor man and had no ships. He wanted to try sailing around the world to prove that he was right.

He asked all the kings for ships but they refused to give them to him. Finally when he was old and gray the king and queen of Spain gave him three little ships and some men. The winds blew and the sailors thought they would never get home again.

Finally after several months, they found floating seaweed and saw birds that do not fly far from land. A few days later they landed on a small island which Columbus thought was India. He called the people he found there Indians.

The Snowman

By ALICE TORREY
8 Years, Grade B-4, Acacia Ave.
I was a snow man. I was born in a field of snow. I had wondered how long I had to lay there. But pretty soon I heard laughter. When I looked up I saw two little children with red mittens. They were very nice children. They had kind faces and were happy. They began piling more and more snow till there I stood in a white suit of clothes. They gathered two big sticks, one for each arm. They got the old broom out of the barn and put it into my hands.

It was growing dark, so they went in and ate dinner. The next morning they came out. They looked for me but I had melted. So they went into the house. I guess they did not make another snowman for spring had come.

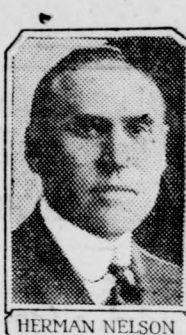

Now I help a little brook water the wild flowers.

A Thanksgiving reunion of the J. F., D. F., W. H. and E. D. Reynolds families, with their friends and relatives, was held Thursday noon in the Knights of Pythias hall. There were covers laid for forty. It was because of the large proportions of the gathering that no member of the family was able to accommodate them in a private home.

GOSPEL OF HOLY MAN'S CAPACITY

Rev. Edmonds Preaches at Presbyterian Church to Large Audience

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church on "The Gospel of the Holy Spirit." The sermon was an elaborate one and the table beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and leaves.

Rev. Cole in Sermon Says There Are Five Things We Can't Effect

"Five Things a Man Can't Do," was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the Central Christian church.

"We have heard it said that there's nothing man cannot do," declared Rev. C. A. Cole. "The statement is exaggerated. Man has accomplished many wonderful things in science, inventions, art, medicine and architecture. Yet, man cannot bring down the rain, order forth the lightning, change the constellations. He cannot by taking thought add one cubit to his stature or make one hair black or white.

"God asks us questions that make us ponder our ability, that we may be convinced of our limitations, that we may consider our weaknesses and profit.

"We cannot bring back the past. We may astound the world with our architectural feats, mechanical achievements, chemical discoveries, surgical performances but there is not one of us now, nor shall there ever be, who can bring back yesterday or even the moment that has just fled. And what has been written must forever remain written. The falling of the mountains, the evaporation of the seas, the burning of the world and all therein, shall not alter a word of the history you have made today.

Mistakes Don't Haunt

"The ghosts of tonight are not the mistakes of today so much as for some as its omissions, viz.: The unspoken words, the unwritten letters and unpaid visits. The privileges of the past are forever past. The days of youth, of the parental roof, of educational opportunities, when past are beyond recall. My friend, I urge you to make the most of today.

"We cannot serve two masters. We might serve two masters in the world of business—one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon. But we cannot serve two moral masters. There is no middle ground between serving God and serving Satan. To be in the service of one is to be at war with the other. A man makes a pretty spectacle trying to sit astride a fence when there is no fence. No man can be a worldling, give supreme attention to self and yet be a servant of God. There'll be some mighty revelations at the judgment."

With Us Always

"The Holy Ghost is a comforter. Oh, how much comforting is needed! He will abide with you forever. Some believe He comes and goes; no, He is here continuously, every real believer is indwelt. Some do not want Him,—it would not suit their program. Do you think you are going to lose anything by allowing Him right of way?

"Maybe you all will say, 'Yes, I believe, I have been guided, I have been comforted with sweet peace.' Come now a little farther: the Holy Spirit is a seal. Do you know anything about this? You know all about seals on documents, the state's seal, God is the sealer, the spirit is the seal, and you are sealed God's property,—nothing can separate or lose you away from Him. The Holy Ghost is the seal of God's possession. And God is able to care for His own.

"Now comes the best. We are sealed with the Holy Ghost of promise 'which is the earnest of our inheritance.' An earnest binds the bargain and guarantees the full amount will follow. Now the Holy Spirit is bringing us here the earnest of what we are to have hereafter. We have here a foretaste. This life is not it, the earnest is here. Heaven is a real place, the believer's inheritance."

SOCIAL EVENTS

TALK BY MRS. BOYER

Sketches of foreign travels will be given tonight by Mrs. H. R. Boyer of 232 North Orange street at the meeting of the Legion Women's Auxiliary in the Legion hall on East Broadway.

Preceding Mrs. Boyer's travelogue there will be a business session of the auxiliary and initiation of new members. Mrs. G. Kaemmerling is to give a group of musical selections and there will be an address on educational work.

A pewter mug, a silhouette, a bit of lace, or beads of jet, Or brooch your great-grandmother wore.

An ancient sword will do as well, Or spinning wheel, or dinner bell; But ere the afternoon has flown, The while your treasure's proudly shown Its legend you must truly tell.

CAFETERIA DINNER

Girls of the Junior J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church are looking forward with great pleasure to the cafeteria dinner they are to have at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Elsie Whitney at 364 Oak street. Mrs. W. E. Russell is the class teacher. Each girl is to bring sandwiches and one prepared dish for the supper. After the dinner hour they are to make plans for their Christmas box.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

A "melterdrama" is announced by Miss Roberta Winans as the main entertainment event at tonight's Community Service class in the high school gymnasium. This skit is said to be a short funny pantomime and will be enacted by members of the class.

Miss Winans will conduct only two more classes. During her work in Glendale a leaders' club has been formed to meet once a month for informal sociability and exchange of ideas for parties and entertainments.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

The women's auxiliary of the First Congregational church will meet with Mrs. H. W. Yarrick at West Wilson avenue, Thursday morning, December 7, at 10:30 o'clock.

A 25 cent luncheon will be served at noon, the proceeds to go into the church fund.

All attending are asked to come prepared to sew, bringing articles for the Santa Claus Shoppe, a form of bazaar to be held by this church in the near future, announcement concerning which will be made a little later.

ONLY ONE MODEL FOR CHRISTIANS

Jesus Christ Is Example for All to Follow, Declares Rev. K. L. Brooks

"There is but one model for the Christian to imitate," declared Rev. K. L. Brooks yesterday morning in the council chamber of the city hall before the members of the Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Brooks called attention to the sixth verse of the First Epistle of John: "He that saith he abideth in Christ ought himself to walk even as he walked."

"The Christian is left free and yet the obligation is laid upon him," remarked Rev. Brooks. "Is there any other human life that has ever been lived that all men could follow?

"Jesus Christ is as much an example for the poor as for the rich; for the high as well as the low; for the old as well as the young. He was the Christ of the first century, yet He did not belong to it. He is the Christ of this century yet He does not belong to it. His life is still the best known picture of what a life ought to be.

Never Invented

"Some would have us believe the apostles invented this character. There have been throughout the centuries great literary artists with wonderful powers of character delineation. Yet no Shakespeare, Dickens, Longfellow or Whittier has ever described a perfect man. They all break down at some point. All attempts to invent a perfect character have resulted in an unnatural, mechanical, wooden sort of a man.

"These untrained fishermen succeeded where the literary genius of the ages has failed. There is only one way it can be accounted for: They described a life that was lived before them. The French rationalist Rousseau said: 'The inventor of such a character would be more astounding than his hero.'

"How are we going to imitate such a life. It is simply out of the question for the untrained man. To the Christian, Jesus is not only the pattern but the power. He has a representative in the Holy Spirit who comes into the life of the man who accepts Him as Savior and it is through His help that we can say with Paul: 'I live, nevertheless not I, but Christ liveth in me.'"

Red Seal Drive Is Started in Glendale

The annual Christmas Red Seal stamp drive of the Anti-Tuberculosis association starts today, with Glendale's quota set at $880, announced Dr. Jessie A. Russell, local director.

"The time limit is Saturday," Dr. Russell states, "but we expect to be well over the top by then."

She has appointed Miss Eva Daniels as her secretary and will announce the balance of the committee at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

While the funds are for the Anti-Tuberculosis association, Dr. Russell explains, those obtained in Glendale will be used locally for school children's clinics and other similar purposes. It is, therefore, urged that the citizens of this city buy their Red Seal stamps here.

PLEDGE SERVICE FUND

Five hundred dollars was pledged towards the $1500 estimated as necessary to get Community Service work started in Glendale yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the ways and means committee. Another meeting will be held by this committee Monday afternoon. Its members are Jesse Smith, H. E. Hewitt, Mrs. Mabel L. Tigh, Alex. Mitchell, Earl C. Pendroy, L. H. Wilson and William H. Reeves.

ADVENT IS TIME FOR MEDITATION

Rev. Kemp Tells Congregation Season Calls Us to Value Our Lives

"The advent season calls us to value our lives," remarked Rev. Philip V. Kemp yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church. "We have come to that season of the year which by the traditional custom of the Christian church has been set aside as a period of preparation for the Christmas time. It is more than that for it is in a sense the opening of a new year with its opportunity for drawing a veil of silence over the past and a new resolve for the future."

"Advent calls us to evaluate our life to see how far we fall short of the estimate of the Master. The Christian life is the life of being in Christ or to give ourselves unreservedly to His wishes. This is the ideal we set before us at this time, that we may take from our lives all that hinders the realization of the new life in Christ. This is but the ground work of the Christian life that we may enter more fully into the life of fellowship with Him, whom to know is life eternal."

"Sin is that which hinders this life and hides from the face of the eternal father as revealed in Christ. To be a new creature in Christ is to feel the great reality of the spiritual world. The heart of man reaches forward to God in every activity of man. Experience has told him that this fellowship does not come through the accumulation of material possessions. They come from God but He has never told us to value them before the way of the true and the good and the beautiful. The church we know of the middle ages surely was not a great spiritual power as the rise of such movements as the Franciscans show. So we turn our thoughts at this time to the need of greater spiritual power; that Christ may mean more to us in the way of dynamic possession."

"Advent calls us to a new outlook—that we may be new creatures making everything subservient to a deeper fellowship with the Master. So shall we go forward into the new Christian year resolving to cast away the idols that may hide Him from us: the idol of possessions that make us see life in terms of quantity, not quality; the idol of popular opinion that keeps us back from the call of Christ; and the idol of selfishness that hinders us from the true meaning of the words of Christ, the Son of Man came to give His life a ransom for many. So shall we be new creatures and as the year goes on be able to feel that we have measured more reality up to the life of Christ."

Final Session for 67th Congress Starts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The final session of the sixty-seventh congress got under way today with Progressive-Republicans and Democrats ready to launch a terrific onslaught upon the ship subsidy bill in the senate before the week ends.

The beginning of the session with which the present congress will pass into history at midnight, March 3, was preceded by the senate and house meeting long enough to gather up the loose ends of the special session President Harding called November 26, which resulted chiefly in the passage of the ship subsidy measure by the house and the defeat of the $5,000,000 Liberian loan bill by the senate.

Both chambers planned to adjourn today after the regular session started until tomorrow when the president is expected to address them in joint session.

Once the senate gets down to the ship measure, which is to be the storm center of one of the bitterest legislative battles ever waged on the senate floor, the house will be busily engaged with the annual appropriations or supply bills which its Republican leaders hope to rush through and shoot into the upper chamber with all possible speed.

Administration spokesmen in the senate declared that, in a drive to force all of the supply bills through before March 4, they were prepared to lay the subsidy bill aside whenever it became necessary to take up one of them. They were frankly dubious about what the senate was likely to accomplish, even toward carrying out the administration's latest plan for farmers' relief legislation before the new year.

It was pointed out that if the senate entered upon the 1923 session after having done little else this month than talk and celebrate Christmas, it might be found extremely difficult to checkmate the anticipated move of the new "progressive bloc" to block the subsidy bill, and tie up enough of the supply bills in an effort to force the president to call the new sixty-eighth congress in special session in the spring.

U. S. TROOPS TO REMAIN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—No action to withdraw American troops on the Rhine will be taken at this time by President Harding, it was officially stated at the White House this afternoon. The president, it was said, deemed it unwise to withdraw the United States soldiers in Germany because of the desire of Europe in general that they be kept there.

INSTRUCTOR ACCUSED
SACRAMENTO, Dec. 4.—A warrant of extradition for the return of Wilmer Elfrink to Iowa on charges of deserting his wife and minor children was issued today by Governor Stephens. Elfrink is athletic instructor at the Quincy high school and was formerly connected with the university farm school at Davis as athletic coach.

BONAR LAW PUZZLED
LONDON, Dec. 4.—Premier Bonar Law is frankly puzzled over the indemnity situation, he told the House of Commons.

"It seems curious, that as a result of the war in which Great Britain was the only country to sacrifice so much to obtain victory, she should be the only nation almost to pay any indemnity," said the prime minister.

Bonar Law was asked if the government was in a position to make public its views on the forthcoming economic conference at Brussels. The premier said the government was not.

WONDER NAME OF ALL TIME RELATED

Rev. Rasmus Addresses M. E. Congregation on Name of Son of God

A large congregation gathered at the First Methodist church yesterday morning to hear Dr. Henry I. Rasmus deliver his sermon on "The Wonder Name of the Centuries."

The singing of the choir was the subject of his comments. "Paul and Peter," he remarked, "both took the same name out of obscurity and wrote it in the deep blue of human history above every other name. The name of Jesus embodies all of the loftiest and noblest qualities that have made merely human names great. In all these he has excelled and the names of men have become mere taper dips compared to the luminous name of the Son of God."

"That name is associated with the mightiest power known to the observation and experiences of men. Who made the mighty chariots that roll in splendor on the highways of God? Who sends them on in their matchless march with resistless power? Hear the answer: 'By Him all things were made and without Him was not anything made that was made.' By the word of His power He keeps them in their courses and there are no collisions on the crossroads of the sky."

Associated With History
"That name is associated with the mightiest power of history. Which is the most powerful name in the world today? Can you suggest any American name that can meet such requirement? Any European name? Lloyd George of England? No, that name seems to have gone into partial eclipse for the time being. Clemenceau, the French tiger? No. The premier of Italy? No, not any of these names nor all of them combined express the power of the name of Jesus."

"What is the trouble with Europe? This: They have never given the power of that name half a chance at their council tables. Not until Europe shall breathe the fullness of that name into the brotherhood of mankind, not until men shall give that name full place in the golden rule, not until Europe and the world shall give Him full sovereignty when it prays, 'Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven,' can Europe and the world ever come to peace."

President Harding Tells of Cuts Made for Coming Fiscal Year

Total revenues, was estimated at $3,361,812,359, which is $747,291,791 less than the actual receipts for 1922 and $68,050,600 less than the estimated receipts for 1923. The postoffice department incurred a large deficit in 1921 and 1922, but is expected during the coming fiscal year, President Harding said, to yield a surplus of more than $950,000.

"That we approach the commencement of the fiscal year 1924 with an estimated surplus for that year of $180,969,125 is certainly most encouraging," he continued.

"While I am hopeful that there will be no deficit in the current fiscal year 1923, if such a deficit does occur, this surplus for 1924 will give a margin to take care of it."

The estimated appropriations for next year provide $103,070,886 for general functions, including the legislative, judicial, executive and general administrative operations of the government; $1,256,715,939 for military functions, including pensions, world war allowances and the national defense; $953,599,096 for civil functions, which includes law enforcement, operation of the merchant marine, etc., and $1,355,720,602 for non-functions, such as payment of interest on the public debt and other fixed charges.

For National Defense
The amounts recommended for the national defense are designed to provide for an army of 12,000 officers and 125,000 enlisted men, the force now authorized by congress; and a navy of $6,000 men.

President Harding declared the retrenchment policy of the government since the signing of the armistice had resulted in a "most satisfactory reduction in the expenditures of public moneys," and then put the question:

"Can there be a reasonable expectation for future considerable reduction in government expenditures in the near future?"

"This question is no doubt upon the lips of many," he continued.

"The burden of taxation caused by the world war has borne heavily upon us all, and that has been the earnest desire of the government to reduce this burden to the minimum consistent with a proper functioning of the federal services. We have seen, however, that approximately two-thirds of the taxes collected go to pay certain fixed charges over the expenditure of which there can be exercised little or no administrative control. The interest on the public debt, the chief of the fixed charges, must be paid. This will be $550,000,000 for the fiscal year 1924, constituting nearly one-third of the total expenditure of the government. Among these are also certain permanent and indefinite appropriations sanctioned by law and public opinion."

Rich Russian Comes Here to Spend Cash

OWOSSO, Mich.—"I got tired of carrying my money around."

Thus 25-year-old Nathan Rubenstein, Russian millionaire, explained his visit to America.

Rubenstein arrived here jauntily attired in a 148,000,000 ruble suit, which translated into American currency means $28. It was necessary, Rubenstein said, to pay for the garments on the installment plan because he could not get the entire 148,000,000 rubles into his wheelbarrow pocket at once. A million rubles, he said, will fill a grain bag, the customary Russian change purse, so that it required more than a week for him to pay his tailor, even though he made ten trips a day to the shop with a couple of cool million a trip.

Attention! Automobile Users!

On account of our selling tires on such a close margin, it has always caused trouble with other dealers, especially if we handle a tire that other dealers handle.

We have taken considerable time to try and find a high grade tire upon which we could get the exclusive agency and buy them direct from the factory, getting all the jobber's, retailer's and broker's profit in addition to the advertising that is spent on many tires.

We think we have found such a tire and have ordered two carloads for the initial order. To make room for this new line we offer any standard tire we have in stock at the following prices. Prices include war tax:

Southern California motorists now have the opportunity to use Associated Gasoline—a companion product to Cylcol Motor Oil. These products are made, and sold throughout the Pacific Coast States, by The Associated Oil Company—one of the foremost producers and refiners of oil products for nearly a quarter of a century. Because of the wide range of our oil field properties we are able to select, for making Associated Gasoline, the crude oils most perfectly adapted for yielding the highest grade of gasoline.

New and different refining processes also give Associated Gasoline greater value in delivering mileage—in preventing dilution of lubricating oil and in giving a quick, snappy start. Thus Associated Gasoline saves your money, your engine and your battery—three important savings that will keep down your cost of motoring.

Associated Gasoline gives your engine added power—more “pep”—new eagerness to go. Every drop is consumed in the combustion chambers, leaving no damaging residue.

Leading garages and service stations sell Associated Gasoline. Look for the Associated sign shown here—it is the mark of a different type of service for Southern California.

THE MONDAY BLUES

Good morning, Reader Folks, are you suffering from the Monday readjustment to the routine and so on.

Cheer up, so am I. Also, cheer up for tomorrow will be Tuesday. Today you are feeling the disadvantages of your daily break from the routine. Tomorrow you will feel the advantages of it.

That is, if the break was of the right kind. To some people Sunday is a day for over-eating and under-exercising. To others it means trying to crowd into a day all the activity and exercise that would be spread through a week if they weren't tied up in an office. Either course makes Monday readjustment a great deal harder.

My Ideal Sunday
To my mind the ideal Sunday is a day not of rushing about nor of lying around doing nothing. It is a day of relaxation. It's ideal background is the country or the village. Towns and cities always seem to me desolate places on Sunday. They are all right enough as a background for the busy, unthinking, pushing on, life of every day, but when the weekly lull in activity comes they seem almost absurd in their monotony and their ugliness. A really beautiful, satisfying Sunday, it seems to me, should have a country or small town background, it should have in it a perfect relaxation from the daily habit of hurry, worship, play with children, outdoor exercise, communion with friends and books.

After such a Sunday the Monday morning readjustment will not be so difficult as after a hectic or slothful day, but I do not pretend there will not have to be a readjustment.

Tuesday, the Good Day
That always comes. Tuesday is the day when you feel the benefit of a wisely spent Sunday—not Monday.

I know an author who never sends out a manuscript so that it will arrive on Monday. "It's bad psychology," she says. "I'd rather have my manuscript arrive on any other day."

Housewives, I think, make a big mistake when they plan Monday as the busiest day of the week. Instead of easing themselves into the week's work they plunge in and try to do their biggest day's work, except for Saturday. A housewife who has made a study of the whole science of home-making advises strongly against having Monday wash day, she gets the clothes together, puts them to soak, but does not wash until Tuesday.

Be Gentle to Yourself!
It is my experience that when you push yourself against the grain to do a lot of work you take much more out of yourself and get much less done for the energy expended than if you ease yourself along and favor yourself on the bad day, and then just put in and work on the good day.

There's no use being too hard on yourself just because you have the power to be. Leniency and consideration get the best results in your treatment of yourself as well as in your treatment of others.

Oatmeal Mush With Apples—

Place lower part of double boiler one-third full of water, over the fire. Measure two cups boiling water and one teaspoon salt into top part of double boiler. Place directly over the fire and add one cup rolled oatmeal gradually. Boil directly over the fire five to ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Place upper part of double boiler containing cereal into lower part of boiler containing water. Cook one hour or more. Cook six apples, leave large cavities. Pare and cook in syrup, made of one and one-half cups water and one-half cup sugar, until soft. Fill the centers with oatmeal mush and serve with cream.

Minced Turkey Loaf—Take the white and dark meat and dressing, not the hard skin, from the skeleton of a roasted turkey and chop all fine together and mix with one or two well beaten eggs, according to quality and mould into loaf. Place in well greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes, basting two or three times with hot water in which butter has been melted, in proportion of three parts water to one part butter. May be served with or without sauce. Tomato sauce, cream sauce or gravy left over may be served with equally pleasing results.

Mayonnaise of Celery—Wash, scrape and cut celery into small pieces. Place in ice water for one hour; drain thoroughly. There should be two and one-half cups. Add one cup highly seasoned mayonnaise dressing, toss lightly together and serve on crisp bed of lettuce.

Spanish Meat Balls With Cornmeal—Mix one pound chopped beef, two boiled eggs, one and one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, with enough cornmeal to make a stiff mass; shape into small balls and roll each ball in cornmeal. Melt one tablespoon butter or drippings in deep saucepan, add one tablespoon flour, one minced onion, one minced sweet green pepper, two sprigs of parsley and two chopped tomatoes or two-thirds cup canned tomatoes, drained, and stir and cook until a light brown; then add two quarts boiling water and one teaspoon salt. When boiling drop in the meat balls, cover and boil gently for forty-five minutes, taking care that the mixture does not stick, as the gravy is thickened by the cornmeal. Place meat balls in center of hot platter, pour gravy around them and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Mock Cherry Pie—Line pie pan with pastry, pour in a filling made by mixing together one cup chopped cranberries, one-half cup of chopped raisins, one cup sugar, one-half cup water, one teaspoon melted butter, blended with one tablespoon flour and one teaspoon vanilla extract. Cover with upper crust, pressing edges together, place in hot oven and bake forty-five minutes.

Perfect Kitchen Is Necessity for Home

"The glorification that has come to that once humble department of the home, the kitchen, is the greatest change, the most complete, the most far-reaching that the home building has undergone in the past twenty years," says Donald R. Gillin, service manager of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company at 460 West Los Feliz road.

"The other day I went through a 'home beautiful' or as most commonly expressed, 'the model home.' Every room in the home was the very last word in type, decoration, lighting, ventilation and general attractiveness. But it was not the living room, the library, the dining room, the bed rooms, nor even the sleeping porch that attracted the keenest attention of the throngs of visitors.

"It was the complete change of the kitchen that caught the eye and held the attention and interest. The kitchen was built by an expert and designed in the best thought-out manner. How different from the kitchens of old, which were made up principally of stove, sink, table, cupboard, and perhaps a pantry that was mostly as large as our now every-day kitchen.

"It was all planned and beautified to help the woman of the house, the real builder and user of the home. How truthfully spoke the wise man who said 'If I were building a home for my family, I would build a model kitchen, two model bedrooms, and a sleeping porch and build the rest of the house with what money I had left.

"A perfect home surrounding a perfect kitchen can be suggested by the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company, which has over 500 photographic views of the ideal home. Plans are free to customers."

Mrs. J. T. Crampton Writes Poem in Honor of Her Aunt, Mrs. Melissa Simons, Age 85

MRS. AND MRS. J. T. CRAMPTON of 325 West Burchett street were guests recently at the eighty-fifth birthday celebration of Mrs. Crampton's aunt, Mrs. Melissa Simons, in Windsor Square in Los Angeles. In congratulating her aunt Mrs. Crampton wrote a poem, which she called "The Tree" and which she introduced with "Dedicated to my dear aunt, Melissa Simons, on her eighty-fifth birthday, symbolizing her great strength of character and her long efforts in service to others."

Mrs. Crampton is a prominent member of the Tuesday Afternoon club and her many Glendale friends will be interested in her poem which follows:

THE TREE

Along the road beside a wood;
A sturdy little sapling stood;
Its nodding head raised to the sky,
And reaching upward eagerly
With leaves outspread to catch the dew
That fell from Heaven's each morning new;
And rippling in the sunlight fair
That warmed and rarefied the air;
But when the playful breezes blew,
It swayed and bent and stronger grew.
Thus did the sapling speedily
Become a sturdy little tree.

Then, as it grew to greater girth,
Its roots went deep into the earth;
And there, where Nature's stores abound,
Great elements of strength it found:
Then with this wondrous strength grown bold,
On Mother Earth it took firm hold;
Ready to greet the rain or sun,
Or battle with the hurricane
That came with fiendish force and sound
To break and lay it on the ground.
But though it swayed and bent its head,
It rose, a stronger tree instead.

Year by year, through storm and sun,
Its branches beckoned everyone;
Giving protection from the heat,
The wind, the rain, the driving sleet;
Proving itself a haven blessed,
A sweet retreat; a traveler's rest;
Rippling its leaves to laughter's sound
When happy children frolicked 'round;
And the boughs that formed the deepest shade,
A perfect resting-place had made,
So the "sweetest story" oft would be
Told near the heart of this wondrous tree.

L'ENVOI

And still it is standing, though marks of years,
On its gnarled and knotted old form it bears;
But each year it lives is a blessing bestowed
On the many who travel along that road.

—FANNY ISITT CRAMPTON, Nov. 23, 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Isitt of 509 South Maryland avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Isitt of 210 West Burchett street, were also guests at the birthday celebration.

Diet and Health by Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

DIABETES

A great deal is being written in the public press regarding the new insulin treatment of diabetes. There is much interest in this treatment because diabetes is a widely distributed disease and is on the increase. In the United States the death rate from diabetes at present is about double what it was twenty years ago. Why the increase?

There is some connection between the increase of diabetes and the following facts:
Fact I. Between 1890 and 1910 the average consumption of sugar for each individual in the United States was eleven pounds a year. Mr. Hoover stated in the department of agriculture report, in September, 1917, that the average consumption for 1916 was ninety pounds a year.

Fact II. Last spring, Secretary of Labor Davis made public the following figures: The average American consumes 2664 pounds of food a year. The A. E. F. averaged only 1540 pounds per man. From these figures the average American eats over half a ton a year more than was needed by strong, virile young men to keep them in fighting fitness.

Do you get the connection? You do. And you are supported by eminent authorities on diabetes such as Joslin and Allen. Joslin says that granted that there may be a tendency to diabetes in certain individuals, this develops into the actual disease most commonly when the body is overfed.

Diabetes is a very serious disease and once established is very difficult to cure and to keep under control. In this disease the body has lost its power to burn or use its sugars properly and the liver is not able to store them, and they circulate in the blood and are excreted by the kidneys in the urine.

In the majority of cases this inability of the system to utilize the sugars is due to the fact that the pancreas is disordered and does not send into the blood its internal secretion which must be combined with the sugars so that the muscles and the tissues can oxidize (burn) them.

The pancreas is the organ called the sweetbread in animals. It is situated back of the stomach and manufactures a digestive juice as well as an internal secretion.

The duct which carries this digestive juice to the duodenum—the small intestine opening off the stomach—joins the duct that carries the bile from the gall bladder, so that they have a common opening in the duodenum. Thus it will be seen that any inflammatory reaction along the gall bladder tract can easily be thrown back into the pancreas and cause it to be affected. Gall stone and diabetes do often exist together.

It has been pretty definitely established that the pancreatic internal secretion comes from little groups of cells in the pancreas that are insulated in the form of little islands, called the Islands of Langerhans from their discoverer.

This new treatment, which is the result of some research work on animals by two Canadian doctors at the University of Toronto, consists in the injection of the extract of these little pancreatic islands. They have called this extract insulin from that fact.

At present insulin is prepared at very great expense, and it is very difficult to get, so the best thing for us to do is to prevent diabetes.

Tomorrow—More on Diabetes turn again—with or without "millions."

Lily, the fragrant goat, sharer of the joys and sorrows of Vitus Marsden, now has a separate volume of her own. Her adventures with Vitus, which appeared in short-story form during the past year, are collected into one book, "Lily," which promises to be a popular gift around holiday time. Humorous stories are invariably welcome, and humor is what this yarn, to quote one of its chief characters, "has nothing else but."

Anyone seeking for a deep analysis of negro character had better steer clear of "Lily." Vitus is more than a bit overdrawn for the purpose of humor; both he and his goat are creations such as could only grow in the fertile imagination of an author. But the resultant effect is laughter, the kind that can't even be smothered in a street car.

The invisible partner of Vitus and Lily is "Lady Luck," coy, elusive, undependable, but usually there at the scratch. She saves Vitus from the jaws of matrimony

BEAUTY CHATS

CARE OF THE HAIR

In my chats to young mothers I mentioned the fact that the hair is almost sure to suffer during the months immediately before and after the child is born. Your doctor will explain to you what particular elements this growing little organism is taking from the body, and of course from the hair. I have not space to go into that here. Besides, I only want to tell you not to worry for this condition is temporary if you give your scalp the proper sort of care over this period. We all know many women who have lost their hair, or who have sacrificed its beauty because of children. I can only say that such sacrifice was never necessary, that proper care would have prevented it.

I don't think I can do any better than to repeat my directions for the general care of the scalp. All hair that is in weak or poor condition needs a tonic. If a child is expected a tonic is imperative to supply these elements which the body is using up. Also the hair should be cut as short as convenient during this time, since short hair requires less nourishment from the body than long hair. Many women will not want to sacrifice the long hair that has been their pride. They need not do so, they need only cut off a little for it will grow back as beautiful as ever in a few months. This applies to any woman whose hair is in poor condition or who is in subnormal health.

The hair should be thoroughly brushed and combed a couple of times a day, while every day it should be given a brisk massage with the fingertips. Three times a week a good tonic should be used, once in three weeks the head should be shampooed, the scalp being first thoroughly rubbed with oil several hours before, or the night before. Dan-druff and poor health almost always go together, therefore even oily hair needs this oil rub.

THEATRES

The Glendale

"The Five Dollar Baby," which appeared originally in the Saturday Evening Post under the signature of Irvin S. Cobb, has been translated into a photoplay by director, which distinguishes Viola Dana in the stellar role, and shows at the Glendale Theatre today.

The setting is the New York Ghetto and the story is of an abandoned infant pawned for $5 by the hobo who finds her on his door-step. Uncle Ben, the pawnbroker, thinks someone is playing a joke on him until he realizes that he is up against the proposition of raising the foundling. This he does. When the girl is 18 the hobo, who has always kept up the interest on the loan, returns to take his "$5 baby" out of him. Complications then come thick and fast.

The T. D. & L.

Once in a while a story is written, a play produced or a picture filmed that rises far above the level of average entertainment. Such a story is "Human Hearts," which gained fame as a play and now brings its great message to the screen of the T. D. and L. theatre.

It is a Universal-Jewel production, starring House Peters, directed by King Baggot. When completed, it was considered by the executives of Universal one of the three greatest productions ever turned out by that company, ranking with "Foolish Wives" and "The Storm." House Peters, it will be remembered, also played in this latter great photoplay, "Human Hearts" was written by the celebrated dramatist, Hal Reid, of the screen star, Wallace Reid.

It's A Fact

SCIENCE HAS 'NEW TOOL'
Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, chief engineer of the radio corporation of America and inventor of the Alexanderson alternator comments on the new invention which seems to make trans-oceanic telephony possible.

"We have here seen a new physical principle reduced to practice on a large scale. Shall it fulfill the dreams that Edison's dynamo has not yet fulfilled to carry Niagara's power to New York? Ten years ago I became acquainted with the little device known as the Audion. Then it was a detector of signals and an amplifier, and the question why not amplify some more and thereby make use of it for transmitting signals as well as for receiving? Dr. Langmuir of the Research Laboratory of the General Electric company gave the complete answer to this question, although it has taken ten years to get to the point where we have today a trans-Atlantic tube transmitter. In these ten years the energy of the vacuum tube has been increased more than a million times. A few more years of the same rate of improvement, continued Dr. Alexanderson, would bring us beyond our wildest dreams, but all we need to say is that science and engineering have received a new tool. It marks a turning point like the steam engine and the dynamo. It will certainly give us transatlantic telephony but it will undoubtedly give us much more.

Dr. Langmuir says it is a stepping stone in the progress of many years development. He further states "We will make larger tubes when larger tubes are needed and we will make them of greater efficiency for the principle on which this development has gone forward is a sound one."

—which is more than she does for most people, white or black!

DIFFICULT INSTRUMENT
A committee was taking up a collection to buy a chandelier for the schoolhouse and tackled Farmer Birch, who had a reputation of being "near." "I wouldn't mind giving a little," said Birch, "but tell me who in the dickens will play it after we get it."

Why We Quit Advertising!

For a while, we didn't dare advertise our hair work a bit more. We had so much of it to do.

And we do it in our spare time—economically and carefully. So we had to 'catch up.'

Wholesalers tell us that we hold the record for quantity of hair used (of the highest quality), by shops of our type.

JIMMY MURPHY SETS NEW MARK

Leads Them All In Contest on Beverly Hills Track; Earl Cooper Second

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Jimmy Murphy, "California's own" king of automobile racing drivers, today smiled on his new world's record of an average of 114 6-10 miles an hour for 250 miles, established yesterday afternoon at the Beverly Hills speedway when in a Durant special he romped away to victory from a field of sixteen of America's fastest racing drivers.

Earl Cooper, team mate to Murphy, also piloting a Durant, finished second by a close margin when Harry Hartz, who came in third, did a number of spins as he entered the home stretch in the final lap that brought the crowd of 60,000 to their feet with a thrill. After Hartz' thrill, Klein, Thomas, Elliott, De Paolo, Hearne and De Palma finished in the order named.

Hugh Curley, mechanic for Hartzel McKee, whose machine tore into the top rail at the east end of the track shortly before the race, injuring McKee and Curley, was reported "improving" today at the California hospital.

Prof. Tiernan Now Missing, Is Report

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Call for Sherlock Holmes!

John P. Tiernan, the interstate husband, erroneously reported on Saturday as confined to the psychopathic ward, still is missing.

He disappeared Friday night and hasn't been seen since.

Today, however, deputy sheriffs were continuing their dizzy hunt, bent upon serving a writ issued by Judge Frank S. Reimer, which would commit the professor to the hospital for examination.

The mystery of the professor's disappearance grows deeper each hour. The authorities are absolutely without a clue. A Chicago newspaper has come out with a sensational story that one local newspaper is keeping John and his now-and-then wife "Gussie" in seclusion while a rival newspaper is holding Blanche, the preacher's daughter and wife No. 2. Both papers, it seems, have "half a scoop."

Be that as it may, the show-down is coming—and mighty soon. The professor's brother, Peter Tiernan, assistant corporation counsel of New York City, is en route to Chicago to find out what it's all about. He is quoted as saying he and two brothers of the South Bend, Ind., pedagogue, are ready to offer the professor every assistance financially in any litigation that may develop as a result of the action of Tiernan's determined sister-in-law, Mrs. Frances Pulaski, in obtaining the order for the professor's sanity test.

But the main thing now is find the professor. It is intimated by those on the "inside" that the professor is in no need of a sanity test—that he is "crazy like a fox." You can't imagine how he hates all this publicity. Especially so in view of the fact that he proposes to make an extensive lecture tour at which the admission will be so much per head.

Song Writer's Death Shrouded In Mystery

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Bohemian circles of San Francisco were being turned upside down by detectives today in an effort to secure information which would clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Harry Baratti, song writer and professional pianist.

His pretty wife, Agnes Christy Baratti, former model and typist, charged with his murder by the police, maintained the same enigmistic silence regarding herself and the case today that she did when police rushed to their apartment following the firing of three shots Sunday night.

Except to maintain it was a case of suicide, Mrs. Baratti has refused to make any further statement. Investigating her, police learned she had been a prominent figure in Bohemian life of the city and years ago was noted as a model in art circles.

George Sterling, well known Bohemian poet, whose photograph was among a number found in the Baratti apartment, said he had known her several years and had heard last from her several months ago when she called him up to tell him of her marriage. She had done his typing work from time to time, he said. He said he understood she had lived in Shanghai, China, for some time and had been married several times.

Local Boxers Win In Torrance Bouts

Boxing bouts in the American Legion Hall at Torrance Friday night were witnessed by a number of fight fans from Glendale. Among the bouts was one in which "Kid Essex" of Glendale was given a decision over Mike Berman of Torrance. "Chick" Watson of Glendale won over Sam Casper of Torrance and an exhibition bout was staged by Jimmy Valentine and Walter Dodge of Glendale.

IN THE SPOT LIGHT OF SPORT

By Wode Cowan

TOM GIBBONS
There doesn't seem to be a fight promoter who is willing to take a chance with a Willis-Dempsey match, and, among the white heavies, Tom Gibbons stands out as the champion's next logical opponent.

While Gibbons might not have a chance of dethroning the champion it's a cinch he'd be a mighty hard man for Dempsey to win from inside of 12 rounds for Gibbons is a fast clever boxer—a target that is never still. His foot work is as speedy and shifty as a lightweight's.

Tom peppered poor Bill with rights, lefts, uppercuts, crosses, jabs and every other known wallop. He was in and out and all around him.

When in action Gibbons' feet and legs go through every sort of motion; they are never still a second. He was always going away when Miske would let one go. Even with all his ability on the defense, Tom doesn't believe in toe-to-toe slugging with any body. The longshoreman fighting, according to Gibbons, isn't effective. His system is to fight one minute and defend himself the next. In that way an opponent is kept so busy guessing what to expect that he has little time to become aggressive.

Tom has a fine left, and his string of 15 odd knockouts in a row is proof enough that his right is poison.

Dempsey will find Tom a different opponent than the slow moving Willard or Carpenter with his lunging, straight arm punch, for Gibbons can hit and box and on defense he hasn't an equal among heavies.

thought it would be remains to be seen. He has been negotiating in the last few days with Oakland promoter to put him on with some of the local performers, but there have been no results for the reason that Willie is asking too much for his services. It is one thing to be a champion and make a money demand and quite another when a has-been endeavors to call for a big medal.

There is no reason in the world why Ritchie should go into the ring again for he is well fixed and has a flourishing auto tire business. It is fairly certain that, under the circumstances, Ritchie will not go back into the game unless he gets what he thinks he is worth.

Easy pickings is what he is looking for and not labor, with a mere pittance as a recompense. Few persons know that Duke Kahanamoku, the great swimmer is in Los Angeles and has been there for some time instead of in his old Hawaiian island haunts. The Duke has taken part in a few minor amateur swimming events but has done nothing to break into the limelight.

The Duke was bitten a time ago with the movie picture actor bug and had aspirations to play the hero in a sort of aquatic romance and drama to be written around his prowess as a swimmer. It is evident that the Duke has found breaking into this game harder than he anticipated and it remains to be seen how long he will sit on the fringe of Hollywood before he gets into the charmed circle.

Several persons have led the Duke to believe they were capable of assuming his management and getting him into the movie game, but there has been a hitch somewhere. Certainly he will not be able to go on forever in anticipation and sooner or later will have to get down to some action whereby he can get his three meals a day. Thus far the Duke has maintained his amateur status and is eligible to compete in the amateur ranks, but there are some folks who think that he is skimming over pretty thin ice. Naturally, the moment he exploits his fame and name as a swimmer for pecuniary gain, he becomes a professional.

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The month of December stands out prominently in the history of boxing as that in which many great contests were held. World championships were decided in a dozen different instances in the month of December in various classes and we also find that many of the most famous of long ago fighters fought their greatest battles in this month.

Going back to 1842 we find that on December 14 of that year the world heavyweight title was fought in England and went to 108 rounds, one of the longest contests on record. This was in the days of bare knuckle fighting under the old London prize fighting rules. W. Perry was then the world champion. As Mr. Perry none of the present day ring followers will know who he was. He fought under the ring name of "The Tipton Slasher" and was one of the greatest men of his day, his name still being connected with ring history. December 14 was the Tipton Slasher's Waterloo and he was beaten at the end of 108 rounds by Charlie Freeman, another of the famous old timers.

Jake Kilrain had a number of his fights in December, among others being his victories over Maguire and George Harris and a draw with Jack Burke. On December 2, 1895, George Lavigne and Joe Walcott went fifteen rounds to a draw at Maspet, L. I. On December 3, at Philadelphia, 1902, the former great Peter Maher was KO'd in the second round by Kid Carter, but at this time Maher was far below his former standards.

On December 4, 1860, history records that the longest bare-knuckle fight ever held in this country was contested at Berwick, Maine, when J. Fitzpatrick and J. O'Neil fought four hours and 20 minutes to a draw decision.

Jack Dempsey "The Nonpareil" figures conspicuously in the December list of contests, but his best known fight of December was his forty-five round event with Johnny Reagan for the world title. The fight was staged in Brooklyn and it took the champion forty-five rounds to knock out Reagan.

We find the names of practically all the great fighters of the ring in December engagements. Such men as Terry McGovern, Bob Fitzsimmons, Stanley Ketchell, George Lavigne, Mysterious Billy Smith, Georges Carpentier, Jim Jeffries, Jim Corbett, Battling Nelson, Joe Gans, Jess Willard and a host of others all figured in great contests in December. On the other hand the records are replete with the names of men who achieved world fame but who are little known to present day boxers. Among these real old timers are Tom Cribb the great old man of English ring history, Tom Molineaux the great colored boxer of the early 1800 period; Jake Kilrain, Jack McAuliffe, George Godfrey, Frank Slavin, Mike Daly, Peter Maher. Then of a vintage between these real old timers and the others mentioned are Gus Ruhlin, Joe Choynski, Abe Attell, Ed Hawkins, Frankie Erne, Eddie Hanlon, Marvin Hart and many others.

Jess Willard May Battle Billy Miske

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion was reported today considering a proposed match with Billy Miske, which may lead to a return engagement with Jack Dempsey.

It was learned today that Willard is in receipt of a letter from Jack Reddy, Miske's manager, stating Miske wanted a contest with Willard and was willing to meet him anywhere Willard would suggest.

CALIFORNIA GIRL WINS U. S. POST

Viola Smith of Shanghai Is First Woman Ever Made Trade Commissioner

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service.
SHANGHAI—Miss Viola Smith, a young woman from California, who has served as clerk to the United States Trade Commissioner in China for the past two years, has been appointed Assistant Trade Commissioner in the United States Department of Commerce thereby winning the distinction of being the first American woman to hold this office.

When Miss Smith, backed by the United States Trade Commissioner and the United States Commercial Attache in Shanghai, applied for permission to take the examinations for the office she bumped into a stone wall of opposition. No woman had ever held the post of United States Assistant Trade Commissioner! However, Miss Smith was undaunted and made a second application for permission to take the examinations, which, if she passed, would secure her appointment. Because of her splendid work in the Government service and the recommendations of her chiefs in Shanghai the questions were forwarded here from Washington.

Made High Marks.
Miss Smith came through with colors flying, and her appointment as the first woman Assistant Trade Commissioner was cabled to the office of the Commercial Attache at Shanghai.

The young woman is well qualified to fill this office, as she has made a careful study of exports and imports during the last seven years. Part of this time she spent in universities in study and part in practical work in large import and export firms in America.

Miss Smith, who comes from California, is a graduate of the Washington College of Law. Following her college work she was employed by the United States Department of Labor at Washington, D. C. After three years of war work in this department she was appointed confidential clerk to the Assistant Secretary of Labor and in 1918 as assistant to the Chief of Woman's Division United States Employment Service.

Two years ago Miss Smith came

Foreigners Fleeing From Chinese Bandits

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—Bandits are creating a reign of terror on the Shantung peninsula. Business is paralyzed and foreigners are fleeing for their lives, according to advices received here today.

Chinese newspapers charge that the Japanese are responsible for the alleged turmoil which is centering around the city of Tsing Tau. The newspapers allege that the Japanese inspired disorders "in an effort to show that China is not capable of handling the situation."

Under an agreement between Tokio and Peking the Japanese are to withdraw the last of their forces from Shantung tomorrow.

Bandits are said to be in control of Tsing Tau, where they kidnapped the president of the Chinese chamber of commerce and a prominent official. Both are being held for ransom.

to China in the United States Department of Commerce, and during this time she has made a study of trade promotion work in all its ramifications. She has found her work fascinating and reveled in the trade problems which the average woman would find of little interest and which would stump many men.

Has Much Trade Data
She has investigated the opportunity for American trade along many lines and can supply information as to whether China is in the market for sewing machines, baby buggies, plows, aeroplanes, cotton mills, or pianos.

During the winter Miss Smith made a survey of the building boom now taking place in Shanghai and compiled statistics of value to the local business firms. Along this line Miss Smith declares that, aside from securing actual building contracts, American capital should find an excellent opportunity for investment in projects such as new hotels, steel and sash factories, door and planing mills, brick and tile works, plumbing supplies and heating and ventilating equipment.

Miss Smith believes that more courses in foreign trade, with stress laid on imports and exports and exchange, should be given in the colleges and universities of America and that these courses should be open to the fair co-eds. According to Miss Smith, foreign trade is a new field for women, and she believes that other women would find the work as full of interest as she does.

ANOTHER RIG BEING BUILT In BIXBY Heights, Signal Hill ONLY 15 DAYS LEFT TO BUY "BEMCO OIL SYNDICATE No. 1"

Now Building Rig on a 350-ft. Off-Set to That BIG HERWICK No. 7

Which well has proven the third sand in the Northwest Extension of Signal Hill Oil Field.

The HERWICK 7 hit the sand at 4169, and set 170 feet of 6-in. perforated casing, in one of the richest sands yet discovered in this field.

Therefore, there has been more interest in this particular location than any other in the Signal Hill district.

Now, REMEMBER, "BEMCO No. 1" is only 350 feet Northwest of the Herwick 7, two blocks East of American Avenue on Center Street, Bixby Heights.

YOU CAN'T MISS IT!

BEMCO No. 1 has 1250 units at $100 each, which takes 50% of the production.

It has become a pleasure for me and my representatives to present to you such an exceptional proposition, being one of the very few of its kind in any oil field. The public does not have an opportunity to invest its money in such a "sure-shot" location very often. However, there are many other good spots in Signal Hill, but I do not believe there is a single one that can do any more than "TIE" BEMCO OIL SYNDICATE No. 1.

I only ask for a chance to show you. If I fail to show you, I LOSE, but if I do show you in front of your own eyes and you do not invest, then you are not entitled to the profits. When you learn of the rapid progress of "BEMCO No. 1" you will see that the time is very short until it will be pronounced a great big financial success. If you drive out, see

D. D. Kroder, who is on the lease.

Mail your check, telephone your reservation or come in and meet me personally.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—There is just one set formula to be followed in selecting an all-star team of any kind and it is quite brief and to the point, to-wit:

Disregard your sense of humor, if any. It is the only serious joke in this fitful existence.

As we write this, we have at hand the first all-eastern selections to appear in print. They make absolutely not the slightest mention of Gouinlock, of Cornell, who looked like the best end of the eastern campaign in the Penn game last week. It only serves to emphasize the point that this selection appears in a catch-as-catch-can enterprise at best.

That was an honest difference of opinion. It is not always so, however.

It may be noted as time goes on that few players from the Navy, Penn State, LaFayette, Pittsburgh and W. & J. will appear on the teams named. Do not be affronted. It is only a part of the system that calls for critics to follow the obvious in selecting only players on winning teams.

Apparently a man, however, accomplished, cannot hope to play good football for a loser.

In extension of any breach of good eyesight we may have seemed to commit in setting forth our various choices we will say that nine of them are the result of personal observation and two others purely hearsay. We have been informed by many experts, however, the Brown tackle is the best, and then Hewitt of Pittsburgh, the best line cracker in eastern football. Therefore, they are named as a concession to the conventions.

Others might also be added but we have no intention of qualifying as a "sight unseen" expert. Therefore, it is with regret that not a single member of the undefeated team from West Virginia is mentioned.

The selection of Gray of Princeton at end; Cross of "Yale" at guard; Garbsch of Army at Center, and Owen of Harvard and Kaw of Cornell in the backfield was pre-ordained. They were the noteworthy stars in the positions of the eastern season.

The World Over By FRANKLIN B. MORSE. PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Willie Ritchie, former lightweight boxing champion boxer of the world, still is entertaining the bee in his bonnet of coming back into the ring with some of the second raters and thus picking up a little extra money for himself. Willie has no aspirations for the title and is sane enough to realize that he could not take it away from Leonard. He makes no bones about the fact that a little easy money would not come amiss to him, besides believing that he still is good enough to beat any but the topnotchers.

Whether or not the sailing is going to be as easy as Ritchie

Russians and Turks Pool Their Demands

LAUSANNE, Dec. 4.—Making common cause for their demands, the Russians and Turks throw a bombshell into the near east peace conference today when they formally asked that the Turkish straits be closed to all warships except Turkish and that the Dardanelles be fortified by the Turks as they were before the great war.

The demand was voiced by George Tchitcherine, head of the Russian soviet delegation.

Ismet Pasha, leader of the Turkish envoys, followed, saying that "Russia's declaration was entirely satisfactory to the Turks."

The conference was thrown into consternation, for there had been evidence that the Turks and Russians were drifting apart and would not execute their threat to form a bloc against the allies.

Lord Curzon, head of the British delegation, and E. Venizelos, head of the Greek envoys, left the meeting without speaking. Both were pessimistic over developments.

By pooling their demands the Turks and Russians threaten to precipitate a deadlock of the straits question immediately.

Tchitcherine had addressed a note to the conference protesting against the decision to bar the Russians from all discussions save those relating directly to the Turkish straits.

World Prohibition In 1930 Predicted

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 4.—Predicting that world prohibition will be a reality in 1930, Virgil Hinshaw, national chairman of the prohibition party, charged today that the Harding administration had utterly failed to properly enforce the national prohibition law.

"The appointments of Daugherty, Mellon and Weeks serve as proof that the President is not doing his utmost to enforce the statute," Hinshaw asserted. "Each of the three men is an avowed 'wet' and has done nothing to help enforce the law."

Hinshaw, who was formerly an attorney here, said that complete prohibition in America will not come until there is world prohibition. He likened the present condition in America to a dry country under the old local option laws when adjoining counties are wet.

Hinshaw recently returned from Europe. He states that Germany is leaning toward prohibition, that Russia is dry, that Scandinavian countries look with favor on the move and that France and England will ultimately be forced to follow suit to compete economically with dry nations.

All cabinet ministers of the Manitoaba government who took office recently are Scots, or of Scotch extraction, and they are Presbyterians.

REV. CALDERWOOD PREACHES ON MEN

Says We Should Know Type of People Eligible to Rule the World

"The Man from Everywhere" was the title of the sermon delivered yesterday morning at the I. O. O. F. hall before the members of the Congregational church.

The text was taken from Acts 16:9: "And a vision appeared unto Paul in the night; there was a man from Macedonia standing beseeching him and saying, 'Come over into Macedonia and help us.'"

"There are two men from Macedonia who have left their marks on world history," asserted Rev. C. M. Calderwood. "One was Alexander, the man of blood and iron. He led the hosts of the new world. He mightily avenged the Greeks who fell at Thermopylae and Marathon. He put an end forever to the dream of an eastern conquest of Europe."

"The other man from Macedonia is a man of dreams and visions. We know not his name. No eyes ever saw him in the flesh. He remains a mighty figure, typical of the hopes and prayers and deeper desires and inmost needs of his rugged land, and also of the people of Europe. This man of Macedonia was seen but once and by one only, yet for two thousand years the memory of that vision has inspired the loftiest endeavor, the holiest consecration of the world. Because of his appeal, Paul crossed the Hellespont. Following him were apostles, prophets, martyrs and missionaries."

Man From Everywhere
"This man of Macedonia is the man from everywhere. He does not know his need even as the Macedonians did not know their need of Paul. Europe needed just what Paul brought to them."

"The man from everywhere needs just what we have to take to him. Suppose Paul had had a stay-at-home policy. If he had said that there was enough at home for him to do where would the nations of the world have been today?"

"There are great world needs today and this man still stands and calls, 'Come over and help us.'"

"If the new world is to be ruled by peoples we should stop and ask the question, 'What are these people like?' What they are will determine what the world is to be. What the world is will determine what we will be. If we let the peoples and world drift downward we are sure to go with them."

"To save the world Christianity must hear the call of the man from Macedonia, the man from everywhere, and go and help him."

Self-Defense Plea In Fatal Shooting

BEND, Ore., Dec. 4.—Claiming that she fired in self-defense following a quarrel, Mrs. Mabel Nichols, confessed slayer of Robert Greer, alleged moonshiner, will face a coroner's jury here today.

Authorities found Greer's body in a lonely cabin at Summit Stage station near here yesterday with a bullet hole through the head. The woman, whose relatives are in Seattle and Ellensburg, Wash., confessed to killing Greer, adding that he had been drinking heavily and that she had taken a few drinks.

"My baby, my baby; don't let her know of this," she moaned in a semi-hysterical condition, when interviewed. She begged that no mention be made of her relatives, fearing that they would refuse to aid her. Her husband will attend the inquest today.

Mrs. Nichols told her attorney that Greer coerced her to accompany him to central Oregon, that she was held a virtual prisoner and that her attempts to communicate with relatives brought on the quarrel which resulted in Greer's death.

Banished Prince to Reside In England

ATHENS, Dec. 4.—Prince Andrew, who was banished from Greece for life by a military court, and his wife, Princess Alice, are en route today for Corfu, their former home, where they will stop briefly to gather together their personal effects before continuing their journey to England.

They are traveling on a British warship. England will be their future home. The princess is related to the British royal family through the Mountbatten branch. The Greek revolutionary committee, evidently influenced by the widespread protests throughout Europe over executions of former state and military officials, has modified its stern program.

General Pallas, General Doumanis, General Exadaktylos and General Valetas, who had been arrested upon the charge of contributing to the Greek military defeat by the Turks in Asia-Minor, have been released.

Trials of accused state officials will continue, however. A group of statesmen, headed by M. Stergiadis, former Greek high commissioner in Asia-Minor, will be arraigned this week before a military tribunal.
